

TWO CARS TWO EXTRAORDINARY STORIES

The only one in the world & one of only two ever built

Some cars are rare. Others are almost impossible to find.

After K.W. Bruun Collection discovered the world's only Maserati Moretti 3500 GT, the search began for another exceptionally rare piece of Italian automotive history: the Moretti 2300 S – a model produced in just two examples.

Today, these two extraordinary cars stand side by side at Classic Car House.

They were created in an era when Italian automotive design was shaped by bold ideas, elegant lines and uncompromising craftsmanship. An era of visionary designers, skilled coachbuilders and small-scale production, where truly unique cars could still be created.

Both Morettis have undergone extensive restorations, carried out by some of Europe's leading specialists with an uncompromising focus on authenticity, craftsmanship and the smallest details. The result is two remarkable cars, brought back to their former glory and preserved for future generations.

Together, they offer a rare glimpse into a fascinating chapter of Italian automotive history – and a unique opportunity to experience two of Moretti's rarest creations under one roof.

One exists nowhere else in the world.
The other has just one counterpart.

Experience both cars on the first floor at Classic Car House and discover the stories, design and craftsmanship behind these exceptional Italian masterpieces.

New addition to the exhibition

A Porsche with a truly remarkable story

We are proud to present a new addition to Road Icons & Racing Legends: the Porsche 911 Carrera RSR 3.0 IROC – raced by Emerson Fittipaldi and later owned by Pablo Escobar.

The car is one of just 15 examples created for the International Race of Champions, where some of the world's greatest motorsport stars competed on equal terms. This particular Sahara Beige Porsche was raced by two-time Formula 1 World Champion Emerson Fittipaldi.

The car later had a very different and unusual owner: Pablo Escobar, who raced it himself in a number of events. After a long life on the racetrack, the car was restored and returned to its original specification.

Experience a Porsche with a story like no other at Classic Car House until 8 November.
